To whom it may concern:

I am appalled by the current degree of "justice" being levied in the Microsoft anti-trust suit: does this current administration dole out favors ONLY to the powerful and wealthy, while turning a blind eye to the average American? I believe Ashcroft/Bush/Gates are playing a dangerous game and the majority of Americans are fed-up with big business calling the shots through government officials (in the olden days, we used to call them "elected officials" but that too has become an arcane phrase).
